Welcome to Maryland

These are great days at the University of Maryland at College Park. The university, through an act of the state legislature, has been designated officially as the state's flagship campus with a mandate to become one of the nation's leading public universities. The effect of that mandate is for individuals from all corners of the university to aspire toward excellence, to think great thoughts and to become immersed in an educational enterprise of the highest caliber. There is an unmistakable momentum for change and a sense of heightened expectation at College Park — Maryland is choosing quality.

The faculty have enthusiastically endorsed a new general education program that began in the fall of 1990. It is a blueprint for comprehensive changes in the undergraduate experience at Maryland. The campus is reducing its undergraduate enrollment, improving the ratio between faculty and students, raising admissions standards, revamping the University Honors Program, strengthening the advising system, supporting expanded undergraduate research, and encouraging innovations in teaching.

A new language house has opened where student residents have direct satellite access to foreign language television broadcasts from the USSR, Latin America, Italy and Japan, and where, in a total immersion setting, they have pledged to speak their chosen language at all times. A new honors house, a stimulating living-and-learning center for undergraduates taking part in the University Honors Program, will open in 1992. An international house, a living-learning environment that will meet the growing needs of the diverse international population on campus, is in the works.

Our location adds to the excitement on campus, too. Few regions in the nation have the intellectual, cultural and physical resources to compare with those in the Baltimore-Washington, D.C. corridor. College Park's location astride that corridor means that Maryland undergraduates may tap these resources to their fullest — through internships, research projects, cooperative work-study and other programs offering hands-on experience.

We invite you to take a closer look at the University of Maryland, its extensive academic programs, faculty, research facilities, student activities and support services and the resources and opportunities it offers. See for yourself the number of different ways in which Maryland is choosing quality. There has never been a better time to choose Maryland.

History

Just after the American Revolution, the state of Maryland established its first two colleges at Chestertown and Annapolis. By the 1850s, at least thirty little colleges had sprung up over the state, many with state support, but many of them disappearing within a few years. Then, in 1859 a different kind of institution appeared at College Park—the Maryland Agricultural College, the third such college in the world, created mainly for farmers' sons. The college was established by Charles Benedict Calvert, a wealthy planter from nearby Riversdale—now Riverdale—and later a congressman. Calvert built a handsome Gothic dormitory—classroom structure located in a grove of trees near the present Morrill Hall, and he divided the land down to the Baltimore-Washington Turnpike into small plots where each of the 50-or-so students experimented with a different agricultural crop. After the Civil War the institution became a land-grant college, with small appropriations from Washington. The little college began to grow about 1900 when agricultural experiments began to bring prosperity to Maryland, and when the college expanded its offerings into engineering, businness and the liberal arts. In 1912 the old Gothic building burned, and the state provided modern structures. Women were admitted to the campus, and graduate work began. In 1920 the college combined with the long-established professional schools of Baltimore and changed its name to the University of Maryland. Growth accelerated after 1935 when the politically astute football coach, H.C. 'Curley' Byrd became president, added scores of new programs, and won national football championships. In the 1950s and 1960s, President Wilson H. Elkins maintained the rapid growth, and College Park became one of the largest campuses in the nation. President Elkins, a Rhodes Scholar, transformed the institution's public image from that of a party school to one of academic integrity. In the 1970s and 1980s, the university's graduate and research programs flourished. In 1988, the General Assembly of Maryland combined six state colleges with the five campuses of the University of Maryland, and specifically charged College Park with the role of leadership. The University of Maryland at College Park recognizes its special responsibility as the flagship and the largest of the eleven institutions within the statewide university system to lead the University of Maryland's quest for excellence. To this end, College Park offers broad coverage in the traditional arts and sciences as well as in a wide range of professional and pre-professional programs. The institution is organized into fourteen colleges and schools encompassing over 100 departments and campus-wide programs of study. A growing number of these departments and programs rank among the best in the nation. Today the University of Maryland at College Park stands, by any measure, as one of the leading institutions of higher education in the world.

Locale

The state of Maryland is unrivalled in its scenic beauty, its rich heritage, and its wealth of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. From the mountain passes of Garrett County in the west, to the sand dunes of Assateague Island on the Eastern Shore, and the cosmopolitan excitement of Baltimore and Washington, DC, there is an unparalleled variety of experiences and resources available to students at the university.

Nine miles from the nation's capital, the University of Maryland at College Park is within easy reach of the country's best research facilities. The Library of Congress, the National Archives (whose new facility is being constructed adjacent to the campus), the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine are among the many unique resources in the area.

In addition to traditional scholarly resources, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute.

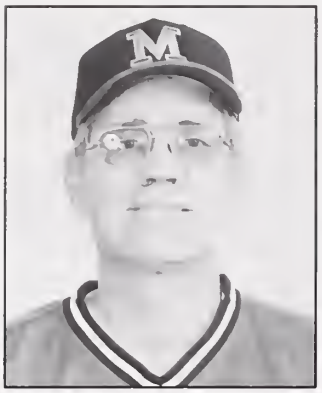
In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, a recent and remarkable renaissance has added the glistening touch of office towers and hotels to the quaint shops and ethnic restaurants of its many colorful neighborhoods. Harborplace and the National Aquarium anchor the Inner Harbor, which has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year.

The Chesapeake Bay accounts for nearly 20 percent of Maryland's acreage, and is a focal point for the serious study of estuarine ecology as well as a recreational treasure. It is the source of Maryland's famed crabs and other seafood specialties, and a refuge for many species of water fowl.

Not far from any point in the state is evidence of the burgeoning development which has made Maryland a model for economic growth and fiscal health. High tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of opportunities for work-study or internships for students and career choices for graduates.

The University of Maryland at College Park, as the flagship campus of the state higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bounteous extension to the campus's own wealth of opportunity.

Looking forward to his 500th career win this season ...



Tom Bradley
Head Coach

Success seems to follow Tom Bradley. On the playing field, in the classroom, or as a coach, he has excelled in every aspect.

Bradley enters the 1993 season on the verge of becoming one of only a handful of Division I College coaches to win 500 games. He enters his 14th season with a career record of 493-346-2.

Returning to his alma mater in 1990, Bradley replaced his former coach Elton S. "Jack" Jackson. In his first season at Maryland, Bradley led the Terps to their first winning season (29-27-1) in eight years. Last year, the Terrapins posted a record of 27-28-1.

Bradley, a former Terrapin star, is the ACC career leader in ERA (1.34) and third on the ACC all-time list with 10.37 strikeouts per game. The Terps placed second in the ACC in Bradley's sophomore and junior years. Bradley was a Sporting News third team All-America selection in 1968 and a two time All-ACC selection.

Following his junior year of college, Bradley was drafted by the California Angels in the fifth round of the free agent draft.

After playing Class A ball for the Angels in 1969, he was promoted to the major leagues. The Angels traded Bradley to the Chicago White Sox where he won 15 games in 1971 and 1972 and struck out over 200 hitters each year.

In 1973, Bradley was traded to San Francisco and won 13 games for the Giants. On Opening Day of 1974 he was the Giants' starting pitcher. During that season, he injured the rotator cuff in his pitching arm.

Bradley retired from professional baseball as a member of the Oakland Athletics in 1977 with 55 career wins and a career 3.72 ERA.

Soon after his retirement in 1978 Bradley was hired as the pitching coach at St. Mary's College of California. Jacksonville University offered Bradley its head coaching job for the 1979 season, and he departed the west coast for the Sunshine State where he would stay for 12 years. Bradley compiled a career record of 431-291 in his 12 seasons with the Dolphins, and led Jacksonville to its first Sun Belt Conference title in 1989.

Bradley elevated the Dolphin program to new heights during his tenure. The Dolphins were ranked among the nation's top 25 during six of Bradley's 12 years. The team finished his final season ranked among the top 25 teams in the Baseball America and the Collegiate Baseball/ESPN polls. Bradley helped focus the eye of the baseball world on the Dolphin program as he helped bring night baseball to Jacksonville, when the New York Yankees donated lights for their home field.

A total of 52 of Bradley's players have signed professional contracts. Most recently David Mysel (5th round, Detroit) and Derek Hacopian (23rd round, Cleveland) were selected in the free agent draft of 1992. Mysel was tabbed as the hardest thrower in Detroit's class of 1992 and Hacopain was named the ACC Player of the Year after winning batting's triple crown in the conference last season. In addition, pitchers Shawn Knott and Charles Devereux signed free agent contracts with the Baltimore Orioles organization, Chris Smoot signed with the Atlanta Braves organization, and Gene Thomas with the San Francisco Giants organization.

Bradley was also an outstanding student at the University of Maryland. During the same year he was drafted, 1968, he was named Maryland's Scholar Athlete of the Year. The honor is the highest award given to the top academic and athletic student-athlete at Maryland. He returned to school and graduated Cum Laude in 1972 with a major in Latin and a minor in Greek.

Bradley and his wife, Kathy, have two children, Alix 13 and Andy 11.

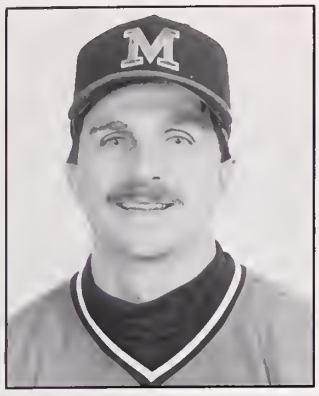
KELLY KULINA



Assistant Coach

Kelly Kulina is in his third year on Tom Bradley's Terrapin staff, his fifth year overall working as an assistant coach to Bradley.

Kulina will serve as the Terps third base coach for the third consecutive season. In addition, he is Maryland's base running and hitting instructor as well its recruiting coordinator.

Maryland's 1993 baseball roster is evidence of Kulina's recruiting prowess. He is primarily responsible for guiding the best prep and junior college baseball talent in the state of Maryland to the flagship institution of the state's higher education system. Kulina's 1993 recruiting class is among the best to arrive in College Park in recent memory.

Kulina starred at Jacksonville for Head Coach Tom Bradley from 1982-84 as an outfielder. Kulina was a member of the 1983 Sun Belt Conference All-Tournament Team with a .779 batting average. Jacksonville recorded a 77-39 record during Kulina's two-year tenure and was ranked as high as 17th in the nation.

Before coming to Jacksonville as a player, Kulina was a member of the All-South Region Team while at South Georgia College. In 1980, he led the team in hitting with a .398 batting average.

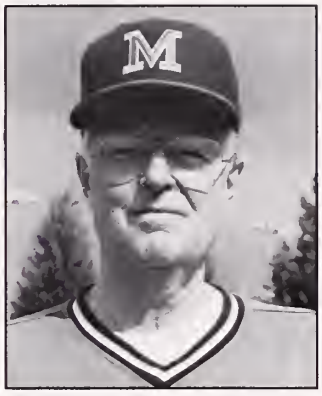
Kulina began his coaching career at Wayne County High School where he compiled a two-year, 46-9 record. The team finished with a 24-3 record in 1988 and was ranked 17th in the nation by Collegiate Baseball Magazine and USA Today. In 1989, he was the assistant head coach at Palm Beach Community College.

At Jacksonville, Kulina was in charge of the Dolphin defense, hitting and overall recruting. In his second year, Kulina tutored the nation's eighth leading hitter, Marc Marini to a .439 batting average. In addition, the Dolphins' defense ranked 16th in the nation in fielding percentage.

Kulina graduated with a degree in physical education and health from Jacksonville in 1984. He earned his master's degree in sports science in 1989 from the United States Sports Academy.

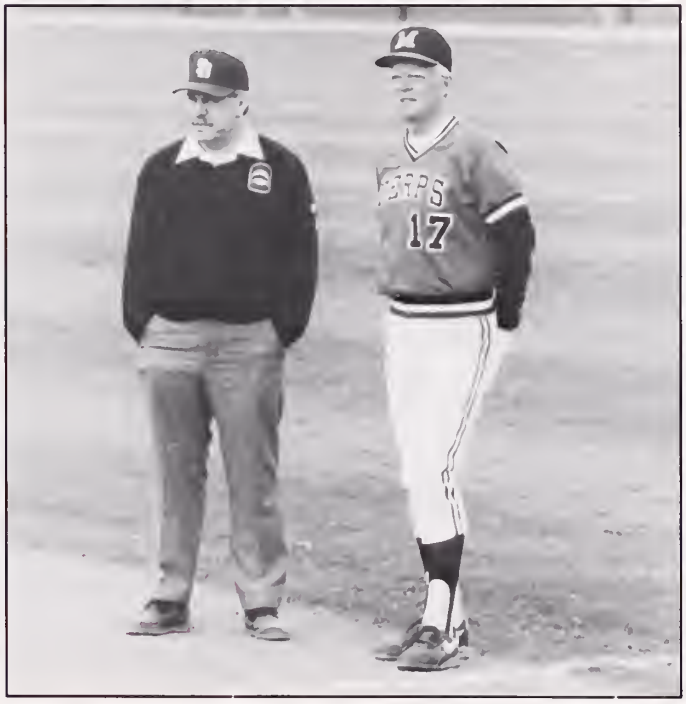
Kulina and his wife, Lee Ann, have two children: a son, Kelly, 5, and a daughter, Lavin, born during the 1992 season.

JIM FLACK



Assistant Coach

Jim Flack is in his eleventh year as an assistant coach on the Maryland staff, his third working with Head Coach Tom Bradley. Flack will serve as Maryland's first base coach and work with the Terp catchers.



Flack began his coaching career at Kimball High School in Royal Oak, MI, in 1960. In addition to his high school duties, Flack coached in the Birmingham, MI, American Legion league from 1957-1962.

In 1990, Flack was the Head Coach for the Maryland Orioles, an International Baseball Development Team, which traveled to Czechoslovakia and Poland. Accompanying Flack were a trio of former Terps players: Dave Armstrong, Joe Meury and Jason Umberger.

Flack came to the University of Maryland as a instructor in the Department of History in 1967. Flack currently holds the position of Associate Professor in the Department. He has been published many times including most recently in numerous historical publications.

Flack earned his PhD in History from Wayne State University in 1968. Prior to that, he earned his Master's from Wayne State in 1963 and his bachelor's from Albion in 1959. Flack earned his undergraduate degrees in history with minors in education and physical education.

He is a member of several professional organizations including the American Baseball Coaches Association, the American Federation of Teachers, the American Historical Association and the United State Baseball Federation.

Flack and his wife Jan have three children; Jim, 30, Hilary, 28, and Jake 25.

The commitment to academic achievement is at the forefront of the athletic department's responsibility to every student-athlete. Striving for excellence is not just something that University of Maryland student-athletes do on the field.

Toward the goal of a successful academic experience for each student-athlete, the athletic department created the Academic Support Unit.

Academic Support offers a comprehensive program for personal and academic development that includes:

- Personal academic assessment
- Academic advising and counseling
- Supervised study
- Learning and study skills programs
- Computer training and usage
- Group and individual tutoring
- Career mentoring
- Summer internships

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston serves as the Director of Athletic Student Services. In this capacity she directs the activities of the Athletic Medicine Department and the Academic Support Unit. In the Academic Support Unit, she and her staff work with every student-athlete in detail to provide the most complete academic experience possible for the student-athlete.

A licensed psychologist, Dr. Adams-Gaston's commitment to bettering student-athletes' lives extends beyond academic support. As director of student services, she oversees an exhaustive series of seminars and programs relating to drug education, time and stress management, and career planning. She also is available for one-on-one counseling sessions with student-athletes, and she has been acknowledged across the campus community for her effective and committed work with students.

Dr. Adams-Gaston graduated from the University of Dubuque in 1976 with a degree in biology, psychology and general science. She earned her master's in clinical psychology from Loras College in Dubuque in 1980 and her Ph.D. in counseling psychology from Iowa State in 1983.

Dr. Adams-Gaston is ably assisted by three assistant directors.

Elizabeth Friedman begins her second year as a full-time athletic department employee after more than four years of assisting student-athletes on a part-time basis. Friedman, a native of Rockville, Md. and graduate of Maryland, coordinates the Academic Support Unit's satisfactory-progress monitoring system. This program of frequent progress reporting between the ASU faculty and student-athletes insures that each student-athlete is making consistent progress toward a beneficial and meaningful degree.

Friedman, who earned a bachelor of arts in criminology from Maryland in 1988 and a master's of arts in criminology and counseling in 1991 from Maryland, follows personally the academic progress of the Terps football players, as well as several other sports teams.

Eleanor Green is beginning her fourth year with the University and her second with the ASU. A native of Morgantown, WV, Green earned her bachelor's degree in social work in 1980 and her master's in counseling in 1988 from West Virginia University.

She coordinates the increasing flow of student-athlete eligibility paperwork, all the while coordinating the academic counseling and monitoring of eight Terp sports teams, including men's and women's basketball. Green also coordinates the extensive orientation program which every student-athlete undergoes on campus each fall.

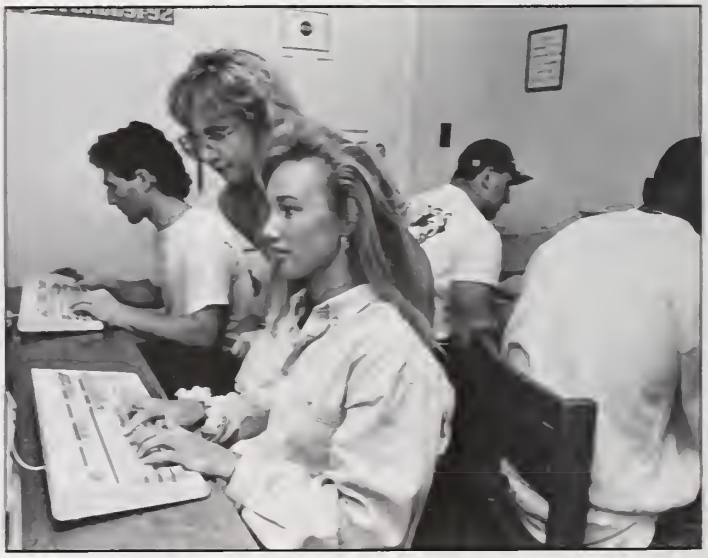
Don Pearman is in his first year with the ASU having joined the department in December of 1992. A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Pearman came to College Park from UMBC where he was the Meyhoff Scholarship Program Director. There, he worked with African American scholarship students in the fields of math and science.

Pearman received both his bachelor's degree in sociology and his master's degree in counseling from St. Lawrence University in New York. As one of three assistant directors in the ASU, Pearman will provide the Maryland student-athletes with academic support and assist them in academic planning. He works primarily with a number of the varsity sports.

Dr. Adams-Gaston, Friedman, Green and Pearman provide seminars for student-athletes on motivation, study skills and time management, as well as several other learned skills.

Javaune Adams-Gaston: As the head of the Academic Support Unit, she provides hands-on assistance to all student-athletes.

Eleanor Green: She is one of two full-time academic counselors on staff in the Academic Support Unit.



Liz Friedman (standing): A coordinator of the ASU's Computer Lab, she instructs all Terp student-athletes on the latest hardware and software equipment.

The Terps have three fully-equipped weight rooms in which to work, each supplied with the latest in weight training equipment. The newest equipment is housed in a weight room that is attached to the men's basketball lockerroom.

With state-of-the-art equipment at their disposal, Maryland's student-athletes also are aided in their conditioning by working with the some of the most experienced coaches anywhere in the country.

FRANK COSTELLO

Strength Coach

Frank Costello has enjoyed unique success among all Terrapin coaches. He is the only individual in the athletic department who has been named both a NCAA Champion and a NCAA Coach of the Year as a Terp.

Costello's athletic success came during his career as a high jumper at Maryland during the mid 1960s. Costello was the NCAA high jump champion both indoors and outdoors during the 1965-66 competitive seasons. He was second in the events during the 1966-67 championships — finishing runner-up to Dick Fosbury and his revolutionary "Fosbury Flop" — and finished third overall at the 1968 Outdoor Championships. Costello received his physical education degree from Maryland in 1968.

After his competitive career ended, Costello joined the coaching staff as an assistant track coach and assistant strength coach — dual roles he held until being named head track coach in 1974. Over the next five seasons, Costello coached 27 track and field All-Americans, including world-record holder Renaldo Nehamiah. Costello was the NCAA Coach of the Year in 1975.

In 1980, Costello became the Terps' head strength and conditioning coach, and has worked with all Maryland student-athletes in that capacity for the past 12 years.

In addition to his work at Maryland, Costello is a full-time consultant for the Washington Capital of the NHL and has assisted with numerous NFL teams, including the Washington Redskins.

Costello is married to the former Sherry Marcus. He is the father of three: Melissa, 15, Christopher, 12, and T.C., 5.

Frank Costello

Mike Vasalani

MIKE VASALANI

Assistant Strength Coach

Beginning his fifth year on the strength staff, Mike Vasalani assists Frank Costello with the conditioning regime for all Terrapin student athletes. Vasalani and Costello both work daily with the Terps' basketball team, assisting them in both weight training and off-court conditioning workouts.

A native of Pittsburgh, Vasalani knows his way around a weight room. While attending Slippery Rock University, Vasalani was a two-time national power lifting champion. He won back-to-back titles in 1986 and 1987.

After graduating from Slippery Rock in 1987 with a degree in exercise science, "Vaz" immediately began applying his professional training and personal skills toward coaching.

He joined Costello's staff in 1988, and has been an integral member of the staff since. Besides the men's basketball team, Costello and Vasalani work with most of the Terps other 22 intercollegiate sport teams.

Both coaches are frequent speakers around the community, discussing the benefits of proper strength and conditioning exercise and the dangers of taking shortcuts to enhance the body's performance.
